Scenario and Scenario Map

Dean has heard his students comment about an action movie that is going to be released in the weekend and had the idea of going out to watch this movie with his wife. He opens Hoyts cinema website and look what are the movies that are going to be available on Saturday. He has been to Hoyts Riccarton and plan to watch the movie there. He sees the movie he wants to watch and check the times available. He loves cinema popcorn so he buys a combo option together with the tickets. He makes the purchase using his credit card and receives a confirmation email.

Discussion

Items that have been improved:

Content format:

The advertising has been changed to a static side bar aiming to reduce the clutter and make user focus in the dates bar and website divisions (e.g.: movies page). Following principles as readability and legibility the movie posters have been modified, eliminating information displayed with a very small font size.

Add to cart button:

The add to cart button, in the food drink page, was replaced by this button: . And following the same pattern as in the tickets page, the price is automatically added to the total price.

This button was also used in the cinema location list to enable users that want to see the results in more than one cinema. The default is only 1 cinema.

Cinema Location

Sign button:

Beside the poster of each movie where shows the location and the session times available, the location has been improved using the location sign . This new bottom helps the user to understand what the name of the cinema means, (location), and gives the option to change the location when the user presses the location sign .

Cinema Names - Location List:

Cinema Names have been improved to show the city name before the cinema name (Christchurch - Riccarton). It helps the user understand where the cinema is.

Seat Selection

Stand out Colours have been used to contrast the seats. The colours of Seats Available and Seats Taken have been changed to a usual way where the dark grey represents the seats taken and the light grey the seats available.
